LONG, HOPELESS RIDE OF FUNERAL TRAIN.

States Seemed to Stand Like Craped, Veiled Sisters in Grief.

Cities Meet the Arriving Coffin With Lifted Faces and in the Country People Waited in Long Lines.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

W ASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Across the country, through an entire day, journeyed a coffin. The country is as fair met the train with a sea of lifted faces, as the sun ever shone upon, and the coffin contains the dead body of the martyred President. It is too fair a country for so foul a crime. The autumn haze is in the air, and the early fall foliage is just tinctured with gorgeous sunset colors.

On the placid breasts of the blue Pennsylvania rivers, the windin-Susquehanns and the blue Juniata, the sun glints back in blinding effervescent feshness to where a crape-draped coach is riding swiftly through that wonderful country, carrying the body of William McKinley, the well-beloved, his brow penciled pallid in death, his right arm, as though to hide the shame of it, covering the ugly hole torn by the assessin's bullet.

The day has been a mockery of the of it, covering the ugly hole torn by the assassin's bullet.

The day has been a mockery of the black fact the special train concealed. It has been as perfect as September and a crisp atmosphere could make it. It seemed as if, should the undulating hills of the Alleghenies escape suffocation in ripe greenery, they must inevitably be drowned in sunshine.

The run was straight through western New Tork, the corn fields now mellow for the sickle, over the Keating ridge that scars the country like a high wart, into the valley of the Susquehanns, a pale and limpid stream that drifts along its middle and the strain that drifts along its middle and the strain the country like a high wart, into the valley of the Susquehanns, a pale and limpid stream that drifts along its middle man in the strain that drifts along its middle man in the strain that drifts along its middle man in the strain that drifts along its middle man in the strain that drifts along its middle man in the strain that drifts along its middle man in the strain that drifts along its middle man in the strain that drifts along its middle man in the strain that drifts along its middle man in the strain that drifts along its middle man in the strain that drifts along the strain that drifts a Stare: up, up, through favines, down quiet, hump-backed valleys, farther up, to the mountains where the Allegheny chestnuts, just fouched with the first light frost, left their splendid threads of amber gold and russet brown; past distant, mjsty North Mountain, then down again, coursing like a hound as though eager to be free of its ill-omened burden, through the town of Sunbury and Williamsport into the capital city of Harrisbure; across the great suggension bridge, a mile long, down through the southwest corner of the State, cutting through Maryland, arriving at sunset in the colonial, wealthy city of Baltimore, then turning face about, pulling in, with subtle, sullen thrill to the capital of the nation, the city, where William McKinley's life work has been accomplished, and whose heart and brain will publish his fair fame throughout the earth.

THE COUNTRY MOURNS.

It was a fatiguing ride and a hopeless one. The train passed through cities draped in black; was met with reverent, bare heads, and bore with it silent, soothing, piteous death. The

THE EAGLE MAN.

At Emporia, a telegram was received from Sunbury. The editor of the Eagle had sent on word, in the midst of his appeals for September pumpkins in return for subscriptions, that he wished to interview the Cabinet on affairs of State. As the great dallies of New Tork, Chicago, Philadelphia, Washington, Buffalo and Los Angeles, to say nothing of the Associated Press, had men aboard, the request of the Mentor of McKeesport county was sidetracked with the coal train whose schedule collided with that of the funeral cortege.

states seemed to stand like craped, veiled sisters, hand in hand and bowed in gentle commiseration. The cities met the train with a sea of lifted faces. There was the waiting at the depot, the arriving coffin, and then the hats began to doff, one by one, first on the near side of the crowd then on the other, until all were silently uncovered. Through the stillness came the perpetual clang of tolling church bells. At Williamsport a set of chimes pealed out the stately "Nearer, My God, to Thee," At Harrisburg, a chorus of 100 young women chanted "The Miserere." At Sunbury, twelve girls stood out in black skirts and white waists, with black mourning in their hair, holding a drooping flag, while at the end of the line, as though in benediction, stood a white-haired one-armed veteran at "present arms;" hatless, the tears streaming down his cheeks.

Those who came to see the funeral train were of all ages and conditionsmen, women and children. When the train came in sight, the long lines drawn up by the track became suddenly silent. The shutters of frequent cameras were snapped far in advance, and as the train went on, the men who pressed the buttons stood in mute strention, then came the crowd disestir in the cities, composed of mechanics and of workers in all the trades: of Grand Army mop—three were thequands of chosen by the late President McKin ley, but that he desired that the mem bera continue to hold their respective portfolics to the end of his term.

DENDUNCES THE CRIME.

He spoke of the colossal, crime which had deprived the country of its chosen Chief Magistrate, and denounced the crime in energetic language, the full scope and tenor of which I will not set down here. He referred to a recent meeting of anarchists in New York where the damnable deed of Caolgoss was indorsed and applauded, and the assasin himself apotheosized, and denounced the gathering, its words and acts with all the flery wrath and energy that could be exhibited by any patriotic citizen unfettered by official restraints or the supposed proprieties of official incumbency.

The President spoke in terms of se-of official incumbency.

The President apoke in terms of severe reprobation of that class of public newspapers that teach anarchy and lawlessness. He made plans and specifications which I will not produce in this dispatch. The President said to me with great earnestness, and with his wonted force: "I intend to do all that within me lies to administer lawfully and effectively, this great office fully and effectively, this great office which I have been so suddenly called by the results of a monstrous crime.
That crime was a blow to the whole country, and to every honest nan within its borders. The President's death is an irreparable loss to his family and friends, but the sacrifice of his country is greater than all. He died in the very senith of his power, at the very acme of his sweet fame. The country must guard itself by adequate constitutional legislation against the

"I am a pretty good westerner, already." said Mr. Roosevelt, with one of his characteristic smiles, "but I would like to see the Coast."

I assured him that the Coast would like to see him whenever he could visit it, and the interview closed with cordial parting salutations.

The new President is, as everybody knows, like a high-pressure steam engine for force and energy, and this quality, coupled with his striking integrity, his high moral courage, his aplendid independence, and his exalted particitism, make him a fit man to take up the great task untimely laid down.

NATIONAL CAPITAL RECEIVES ITS DEAD.

Vast Concourse Stands Silent as the Funeral Coach Passes.

Sherits before the train arrived, the two members of the Cablust who had been in Washington reached the station. They were Secretary of State Hay and Secretary of the Treasury Gage. They had come to meet the hody bier of the dead Chief. Both were ciad in deepest mourning. This they would have worn upon this state occasion, even were they not in meuring, Mr. Hay for his dead son and Mr. Gage for his dead wife. Both were careworn, and as they paced to and from, waiting for the train, all men there uncovered before them. Old employes of the White House came, also wearing mourning. Some of these men had attended Lincoln's funeral when they were White House employs. More that seen Garfield brought home dead, and now they were called for the and now they were called for the third time to await the coming of a dead Chief.

THE TRAIN ARRIVES. THE TRAIN ARRIVES.

It was $:40 o'clock when the train came into sight around a curve and rolled slowly into the station. There was something more majestic than usual about this engine draped in black, puffing down the track into the train end. Everybody in the station and shed uncovered as its bright head ered and choking as the train came to a standstill. Then all drew back, for word came forth that Mrs. McKinies was to alight immediately and proceed to her carriage by a side entrance to to her carriage by a side entrance to the station. She came wearily down the car steps, leaning upon the arm of Abner McKinley and Dr. Rixey. But those who saw her thankfully noted that her step was comparatively firm for an invalid who had been through this terrible ordeal. She went through the side entrance to the train shed, entered her carriage there, and waited for the other members of the party to for the other members of the party to

for the other members of the party to alight.

As soon as the distinguished party that came down from Buffalo had proceeded from the train, six stalwart marines took the casket containing the body of the President from the flower-strewn coach in which it had made the journey from Buffalo, and, with 'it resting firmly upon their shoulders, proceeded with it to where, just out-side the station, a plain black hearse was waiting to receive it. Directly behind it came President Roosevelt, uncovered, and walking along with head bowed. As the body was placed in the hearse a bugic bigst, ehrill and clear in the night air, called the cavalrymen to "attention," Mr. Roosevelt stood uncovered until the doors of the hearse had been closed and it had been moved by its six black horses a short distance out toward Pennsylvania avenue there to await the members of the party who were to follow it to the White House in carriages. STATELY PROCESSION.

Then commenced one of the most stately processions this world has ever witnessed. Stretched nearly two miles down Pennsylvania avenue to where the White House stands, there were two solid walls of people on either side. It is slways a brilliantly-lighted thortony which perfect Septemroad plots.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—Senator Depew, discussing the problem of what is to be done to suppress the growth of anarchy, is quoted as saying:

"We must begin at the fountain head and stop the reservoirs of European anarchy pouring into our country. Such certification of immigrants must be had as will establish a proper environment and association abroad before they pass our immigrant inspectors. Supplementing this there should be, under proper safeguards, the power lodged somewhere to expel known enemies of our laws and country. Legislation should also be adopted that will take attempts upon the life of the President which fall out of the category of mere assaults, and make such crimes adequately punished."

OFFICIALS FIND HOTBED. reached the Mayor and Chief of Police of North Bergen, Hudson county, N. J., last night that a number of anarchists were to hold a meeting there. The officials not being able to locate the meeting, went over the line into Bergen county and called on Mrs. Bresci, wife of the slayer of King Humbert. She was told they suspected the meeting was to be held at her house and she was warned that if it was, she and her visitors would land in jail. Mrs. Bresci was loud in protestations that she was suspected unjustly. While the officials were talking to Mrs. Bresci, five Italians came to the house and later eight more. They severally declared they were not anarchists, and invited the Mayor to remain. He did so and firmly believes he broke up an anarchist meeting.

DEPARTMENTS TO CLOSE.

BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS-A.M.1

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]
WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—Upon the receipt of a telegram from Mr. Cortelyou at Buffalo, which presumably reflects the wishes of the President, the announcement was made today that the executive departments at Washing will be closed Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of this week. This order, however, does not apply to the several sub-treasuries and customhouses in this country and in Porto Rico and Hawaii, which will be closed Thursday only.

PRESIDENTS CABINET TO REMAIN UNCHANGED.

NOT "FOR A FEW MONTHS," BUT THROUGH TERM.

All Have Already Accepted the President's Invitation Except Secretary Hay, Who Will Doubtless Decide in a Day or Two.

(BT DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)
WASHINGTON. Sept. 16.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Cabinet of President McKinley will be the Cabinet of President Rossevelt. With perhaps a single exception, the eight men who aided President McKinley in carrying on the government with such signal success will be found permanently by the aide of his successor. There were today some most important developments concerning the future of President Rooseveit's administration. The first of these was the decision of the President that he would ask the present members of the Cabinet to remain with him, not simply for the time be-throughout his administration.

When, Saturday last, President Roosevelt invited them to hold their present posts, it was "for a few months," and this invitation all members of the council construed as meaning that their services were wanted only to carry the government over till Roosevelt could find new men to his liking. This duty they were, of course, willing to perform but, save in the case of two or three, they had begun to count upon nothing else than retirement to private life during the coming of the Cabinet neid a priet consultation, and at the end of it all accepted the invitation and pledged themselves to their new chief. At request of the President they also promised to use all their influence to secure a similar acceptance from the two members of the Cabinet who were not present at this happy conference, Secretaries Gage and Hay.

Later in the afternoon, President Roosevelt caused a telegram to be sent to Secretaries Gage and Hay asking for an interview at an early hour. Tonight the Secretary of the Treasury called on the President at the residence of Mrs. Cowles on N street, and was urged by Roosevelt to join his colleagues as a permanent member of the new council. Secretary Gage has consented. Secretary Hay has likewise-been urged to cast his lot with the new administration, but has not, yet given his answer. If he and Gare consent, there will be withas not, yet given his answer. If he and Gage consent, there will be witnessed the extraordinary spectacle of the entire Cabinet of a dead President remaining as advisors and helpers of his successor.

In case Secretary Hay cannot be induced to remain, and this will probably be decided in a day or two, he will be succeeded by Secretary Root. In this event, it is now suggested that President Roosevelt will ask Gov. Taft, now in the Philippines, to return home and become Secretary of War.

Twenty-three persons were drowned resterday by the wreck of a ferry-boat, which was crossing the flooded Kulpa River, near Osaili, Croatia.

LEAVE HOME FOR WASHINGTON.

(BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—Mrs. Theodore Rooseveit left Oyster Bay, L. L., at 7:28 o'clock this morning for Wash-ington. She was accompanied by her son, Theodore Rooseveit, Jr. They ar-rived here at 8:40 o'clock, and went at once to the Pennsylvania Railroad sta tion, where they boarded the 10 o'clock train for Washington.

Accompanying Mrs. Roosevelt ar son were Mrs. Cowles, sister of the President, and wife of Command Cowles, U.S.N.; ex-Gov. Allen of Porto Rico, and Mr. Jeffers. The part occupied the car Oceanic. Both the President's wife and her son well dressed in black, Mrs. Roosevelt weating a veil. On arriving in Washingto Mrs. Roosevelt and her son will go the residence of Mrs. Cowles.

VIGOROUS, YET CAUTIOUS.

POLICY OF THE PRESIDENT. (BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)
NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—[Exclus

Presiden Ropesvelt it is and government. Prevelt, it is said, has ann Roosevelt, it is said, has announced that the assassination of President McKinley eliminates him as candidate for President in 1904. Yet he has taken steps to insure his has taken steps to insure his has taken steps to insure developments of the party. He has reached a thorough understanding with Gov. Odell. The New York organization is pledged to support him in his offices and his ambitions. He has also insured peace with Senator Hahna, with the understanding that the Ohioan will be recognized as the leader of the Republican party, and will exercise all rights that have attached to the position of chairman of the Republican National Committee.

President Roosevelt, though deep in grief, has realized the great responsibility resting upon him, and has given quick consideration to his policy. There have been important conferences with friends and political leaders, and out to the future with some apprehension. No one more than he appreciates the fact that the change, even though slight, in the national policy at this time is unfortunate. He knows that it will be a task of great difficulty to give the country such an administracase of two or three, they had begun clision was announced to a close friend to count upon nothing else than retirement to private life during the coming fortnight or more. Today, however, insted, so far as future candidacy may the President took pains to place the matter in a new light. He had apparently been reflecting upon the situation, and was not whofly satisfied with it. Somewhat to the surprise of six members of the Cabinet, who were on the funeral train today, Roosevelt called them into his private comparimembers of the Cabinet, who were on the funeral train today, Roosevelt called them into his private compariment at 3 c'clock this afternoon, and said he wanted every one to consider himself invited to become a member of the new Cabinet.

"I not only want you to stay with me," said the President to them, "but I want you to consider that I am selecting you as my choice. You are asked not merely to fill out the term, but to be my chosen councillors. I wish to have the matter regarded in this light: There are vacancies in the Cabinet posts, and I choose all you gentlemen to fill them. I will appoint you anew."

As soon as they had recovered from their astonishment, the six members of the Cabinet held a brief consultation, and at the end of it all accepted the invitation and pledged themselves to their new chief. At request of the President and Senator Hanna. This was brought about by Gov. Odell. He has had three long and important conferences with President to their influence to secure a similar acceptance from the two members of the Cabinet who were not present at this happy conference, Secretaries Gage and Hay.

The matter of completing an understanding between the President and Senator Hanna was a difficult and delicate matter to handle. Senator Hanna would not permit himself to be placed in the attitude of a supplicant, and the dignity of his office made it impossible for President Roosevelt to make overtures to the Warwick from Ohio.

The British government, though taking cognisance of the evidence, will not bring it to the attention of the United States government, leaving Washington to take action. If any is desirable.

PORTLAND (Or.) Sept. 16.—In the United States Circuit Court of Appeals today, with Judges Gilbert, Ross and Morrow on the bench, the following decision was rendered in the case of P. H. Anderson, appellant, vs. O. José Comptois, appellee, in the matter of contempt of Dudley Dubose:

"We are of the opinion that the findings of fact and judgment heretofore entered herein are in all things correct, and are hereby reaffirmed, and the United States Marshal for the northern district of California is hereby directed to execute the judgment heretofore entered herein forthwith."

FRESNO, Sept. 18.—Owing to the fact that Thursday has been declared a holiday by proclamation of the Governor, the meeting of the raisin growers called for that day to decide finally the fate of the raisin combine has been postponed until Saturday next. Instead of the canvass for signatures to the new lease and contract being closed at 6 p.m. Wednesday, an extension has been ordered until the same hour on Friday.

Reassuring reports are coming in from the canvassers for signers in the outside district, and it is believed the required signed acreage of 75 per cent. will be obtained. The banks and business houses here and adjuining towns exhibit placards over counters and in windows urging growers to sign the contracts. M. T. Kearney, president of the association, went to San Francisco last night to confer with owners there of local raisin-packing houses.

STOCKTON, Sept. 16.—Three laborers named Watson, Wolf and Down were brought in today from Tesia charged with arson. The boarding-house and two adjoining buildings at the gravel pit, five miles from Tesia, were burned last night, after a drunken row among some of the men, with a total loss of $1600. The property was owned by the company. It is said the men became angry because one of them was put out of the dining-room, owing to his use of obscene language, and hereats were made that the place would be burned. The manager of the place took the women up to Tesia, and the fire was started while he was away. Thirty men were employed there, and this morning they had to walk to Tesia for breakfut. The man lost their blankets and some of them had narrow escapes, he most of them were asseep.

He won't have a shoe in the stock unless the materials are up to a certain standard. The workmanship must be perfect, every little detail carefully carried out. When a shoe reaches his hand, he cuts it open, tears it to pieces, and if every point is not up to his standard of goodness, back the shoe goes to the manufacturer. PROPERTY RIGHTS OF ALIENS.

It is true that the harsh conditions have been much mitigated in the last 250 years. Formerly when war broke out private property of aliens residing in the belligerent's territory, was subject to confiscation, and in waging war in the enemy's territory, looting private property was a legitimate part of military operations. In those days war was almost a normal condition and property in a foreign country was at all times a precarious asset. During the middle ages the severity was often lessened by giving time to merchants at the outbreak of the war to withdraw their goods from a belligerent country, but this was a matter of special indusence rather than a right, and at the beginning of the seventeenth century all kinds of property belonging to an enemy were habitually selsed. During the eighteenth century the complete appropriation of real estate disappeared and the confiscation of the personal property of all in nemies residing with-PROPERTY RIGHTS OF ALIENS.

of Paris, limiting the capture of private property, not contraland of war, to enemy's goods in enemy's ships, abolishing privateering and restricting hierarchies which the United States refused to sign this agreement, holding out for absolute freedom of private property on the seas, yet during both the Civil War and the war with Spain the United States observed the rules of the declaration. Spain also acted in accordance with these rules, although she, too, had not been a signatory power and was under no legal obligation. This action went far to show that these concessions to commerce have become a part of international law.

DESTRUCTION OF SHIPPING. DESTRUCTION OF SHIPPING.

Enough has been said to indicate the general trend toward minimising the disastrous effect which war has on commerce. But so long as private property may be captured at sea, it is evident that war, at least with A maritime power, is disastrous to shiwoing. The amount of shipping which disappeared from the American registry during the three years 1861-4, was ingre than 50 per cent, greater than the total tonnage which we now have left. Part of this was destroyed by cruisers, part turned from commerce to naval uses, part sold to English purchasers, part urned from commerce to naval uses, part sold to English purchasers, part urned away in American harbors. Commerce with the South was so destroyed by the blockade that Great Britain received only about one-twentieth as much cotton from America as was imported in normal years. The effect on general commerce was even greater during the war of 1812, for then there-was no great neutral carrying power to bring goods to our ports, and imports which just before the war averaged $35,000,000 fell in 1811-12 to 18,000,000. disastrous effect which war has on commerce. BEGINNING OF FOREIGN TRADE. Commerce is not without revenge on war. If war has many times destroyed commerce, commerce in turn is the great antagonist of war. The traditional attitude toward foreigners in antiquity is shown by the use of the single Latin word, hosts, to designate for edge and a merely a transfer of trade, yet were lated which have permanded to the same wars, which cut off the supplies of cane sugar, coffee and American tobacco, industries. market. This was the idea dominant in the commercial wars of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries. Control of America by one power meant the exclusion of other nations from direct trade with the colonies. The success at arms of England meant for her great commercial gain and corresponding loss to her rivals. Holland's dominance on the sea was destroyed. France was driven from America, and thus England became mistress both in mercantile and naval marine. England's commercial supremacy is not to be considered something apart from her political leadership; both date back to her success in war against her commercial rivals. Though the limitations which England placed on trade were directly harmful to the rest of the world, yet her control was so liberal compared with that of France or Spain that the wars which gave dominance to England resulted ultimately in the general expansion of commerce. which the Pacific Mutual ance Company of Californits industrial business to titan Life Insurance Comp York. EFFECT ON HOME INDUSTRIES.

The second way in which wars have occasionally stimulated commerce has been through their effect in developing national industries. The Napoleonic wars which cut off the supplies of canes sugar, coffee and American tobacco, led to the extensive cultivation of beet root, chicory and tobacco in Germany and Silesia was due to the same wars, which cut off the supply of foreign textiles. Similarly the Berlin decreate which cut off the supply of foreign textiles. Similarly the Berlin decreate simulated in France the cultivation of tobacco, mains, beet root and madder. The Crimean war caused new gas in British agriculture. The necessity of producing at home roods which had formerly been imported has frequently been such an incentive been devised, the world as well as a to the United States.

COMMERCE WITH COLONIES.

Finally, it is frequently claim 1 that the extension of sovereienty over a foreign land secures forthwith in petus to her commerce. Although much of this was merely a transfer of trade, yet by serving to develop the resources of the company of the new country it berhaps was uitimately beneficial to the world as well as to the United States.

It is a defiance not only of law and of society, but of the Amer-ican home itself. It virtually says to the community, 'Let your farm prod-ucts rot on the wharves, let the homes of your workingmen he destitute, let the wives and the children of Amer-icans lack for food: we are going to make a holiday of the strike and go to our homes in Europe."

CATERMINATION - POR AWARCH-

That excellent newspaper, the Kan-nas City Journal, had a notable editorial in its issue for the 9th inst., on the subject of anarchism and an-archists. After giving a brief review of the crimes of these pests of society of the crimes of these pests of society during the past thirty years, the article points out that "there exists throughout the world a zecret order which is organized for the purpose of committing murder; and furthermore, we know that it has branches in our committee where of all places on wn country, where, of all piaces on he earth, a feeling of hatred for rulers has no cause to exist." Continuing, the Journal says:

"It is not hard to account for the membership of these orders. In the human family there are wolves and hyenas and vipers just as there are in the animal kingdom. These naturally gravitate into an organization which has for its mission the overturning of society and the destruction of all government. And to them may be auded the semi-mad men whose warped intellects make them an easy prey to the fallacies of anarchism. And for the development of their madness our political system is not without a part of the blame. On hearing of the wounding of President McKinley, W. J. Bryan sent a telegram of condolence in which he said: 'in a republic where the people elect their officers and can remove them, there can be no excuse for a resort to violence. BURBANK On Sunday night the Frawley Company put on "The Maqueraders," and played to standing-room only. "The Masqueraders" is one of Henry Arthur Jones's strongest dramas, despite the last act, which is rather an anti-climax, and requires most exquisite handling to become convincing. The plot briefly sketched is as follows: Duicle Larondle, a young, high-spirited cirl, has two suit-ors, one, David Remon, poor but noble, ors, one, David Remon, poor but noble. THE PRESS AND THE CRIME.

have the right to say that any man who publicly and expressly advocates a violent attack upon our political institutions or their lawfully chosen representatives thereby forfelts the privileges and protection of the government which he would destroy.

No man can be in a community and out of it at one and the sametime. No man should be suffered to invoke a law which he has defiantly forsworn. No man should enjoy the rights of citizenship which he has deliberately renounced. These several propositions rest upon a truth so obvious that they need no argument for their support.

If some nation should declare war upon the United States, our government would not idly walt until the facts of the enemy were in our harbors and his armies on our shores. Banded anarchists have declared war upon organized society, and their blows should be anticipated wherever and whenever possible. Their camps, should be surprised and their plans of campaign thwarted at the outset.—[Boston Globe.]

The Anarchist a Degenerate.

The Anarchist a Degenerate.

Was Csologaz insane? Yes and no. He was insane as all other anarchists are. His views of life, its conditions, its purposes and its proper restrictions were so warped and perverted that his mind was in a morbid and diseased condition. A diseased condition of mind is, to a greater or less extent, insanity. The anarchist is a degenerate and as such is not governed in his intellectual processes by the healthy and sound influences that control normal-reasoners. The fundamental principles upon which his deductions are based are radically wrong, and hence his views and conclusions are frightbivine patience of the LAW.

"The bullet I fired," said Csolgoss, "was at the representative of the present conditions of the law, which are all mistakes."

Mistakes? What mistakes? The military are denounced, by Socialist and anarchist as oppressors of liberty. But artillerymen thrust themselves the conservation of the law which gives demented people immunity. A man or woman may be the wildest kind of anarchist as oppressors of liberty. But artillerymen thrust themselves the was committing the gravquarters that all crime results from diseased and insane mental conditions. der by spoken or printed words to be an "overlact" of a criminal nature.

There must be power in the nation and in the State to put all necessary restraint upon those forms of political anarchism and social insunity which deny the authority of all government, defy its laws, and applaud it they do not openly counsel the assassination of rulers and public servants as a means of "changing the existing order," and bringing in a fool's and lasy man's millennium. To deny the existing of such a power is to repudiate for the government the "first law of nature"—self-preservation.

Just what measure of repression is safest and best is a matter for our social scientists and law-makers most seriously to consider. But in view of this latest crime, and of the public temper concerning it, it is plain that something must be done, and that quickly.—[New York World.]

The President People Loved.

The President People Loved.

The universal feeling is one of mingled horror and amasement. For of all the men in the world William McKinley would seem to have been the last that anybody would wish to kill. For he had no living enemy. His kindly and benignant nature overflowed with such cordial good will to all that it disarmed all political opposition of its malignity and converted his political enemies into personal friends. Two of his predecessors were assassinated within the last thirty-six years, but there seems to have been absolutely no motive for this attempted assassination of President McKinley. Whatever bitterness in past party controversies there may have been has passed away, and an era of general good feeling is now previating which is leventy due to the terness in past party controversies there may have been has passed away, and an era of general good feeling is now prevailing which is largely due to the generous and conciliatory influences which emanate like a genial sunshine from the kindly personality of William Mc-Kinley. If it had been a period of general distress and discontent it is conceivable that some crank might have held him responsible for his misfortunes. But it is a time of universal peace and happiness and prosperity, with which President McKinley's name is popularly associated as a leading agent in bringing it about. It is not enough to pay him the negative tribute of saying that he has no enemies. We have never had a President of the United States who was so generally loved by all the people of all classes and parties and sections.—(St. Paul Ploneer Press.

ONTRACTOR SAYS THE CITY DOES NOT PROVIDE ENOUGH.

Unsatisfactory Service Imputed to Lack of Facilities—One-fourth of the Time of Drivers Required to Reach

To properly lay the dust on the city streets more water plugs are needed. Contractor A. P. Cross, who holds the sentract for street sprinkling so reserved to the City Council yesterday: Many compiaints have been made shout the sprinkling service during the nummer. The residents on many streets smeet that the sprinkling is entirely nadequate to meet the requirements. Because of the fault found with the service the Council: recently took the contractor to task. He asserted that he trouble comes from an insufficient number of hydrants. As the city supplies the fire plings and "goosenecks" is laid the blame for the faulty service at the door of the Council. At the request of the Board of Public Works Contractor Cross prepared list of the places which need fire hugs and sprinkling connections and his was submitted yesterday.

According to the contractor's estimate five hundred and sixty-swo additional hydrants are required to guarantee satisfactory service. Also ninety-reem "Eddy" vulves to be placed on my hydrants not now so equipped. With this valve the fire plugs can be used to fill the sprinkling carts.

The Council was startled to say the sast at the number of hydrants demanded by the contractor. It would not very nearly $3,000 to install the ull number. With the present short-re in the funds this is are immense um to put to such use and it is by a means likely that the Council will suider it seriously. There are now hout six hundred and fifty scater hymans in this city.

For the time being the petition was ferred to the Fire and Water Committee, consisting of Messra, Blanch-red, Lauder and Walker. This committee will investigate the conditions of mercasing an number of fire plugs in those localities that need then most.

LEGISLATIVE MISCELLANT,

BREWERIES AGAIN SCORED.

On behalf of the mothers, the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, by Mrs. Hester T. Griffith, president and Mrs. Marion T. Boyd, corresponding secretary, yesterday filed with the Council a protest against the action of the breweries in distributing free samples of beer on Labor. Day. It is as follows:

"Having heard from reliable persons who withensed the acts, that on Labor Day, of the present month, certain liquor houses represented in the procession on that occassion, distributed belies of their goods to the crowder upon the street-including the children-and said bottles were said to contain beer, or other liquors, we the W. C.T.U. of Los Angelse, herewith protest against such temptations being placed before the public, and request that if there is an ordinance against the giving of samples of liquor from parades it henceforth he enforced, and if no such ordinance exists, we petition your honorable body to enact such an one."

dured by his brother, President E. T. Pierce of the State Normal School, Pierce, the Councilman, looks happy. It is reported that Councilman Pierce received an urgent telegram from his brother, the scholastic, that hastened his return home. With the aid of Brother Pierce, the Police Surgeon, Broker Pierce, the furniture man, Brother Pierce the Councilman hopes to extricate Brother Pierce of the Normal School from the crows of the auroral roosters. Strong in the belief that in unity there is strength, the Pierce family is far from cast down over the prospects.

The ordinance that is to restrict the boastful chanticleers in their salvess to the glorious dawn was not presented yesterday, however. Pierce, the legislator, is moving slowly in this important matter. But the wheels of the municipality have started grinding and Mr. Rooster had better be careful how he conducts himself in the early morning hours.

Mr. Rooster had better be careful how he conducts himself in the early morning hours.

During his vacation Pierce spent some time in San Francisco, Oakland and Sacramento. In the latter city he formerly lived. According to him the State fair at the capital is of little interest outside of the horse racing. As the Councilman from the East Side disclaims any knowledge of "mutuals" and "long shots" he found little to engage his attention at Sacramento.

While in Portland, Or. Pierce, who is a member of the committee that is to draft an ordinance for the civil-service management of the water plant, investigated the methods there in vogue. Portland acquired its water system in 1892 by a special enabling act of the State Legislature. The first cost of the plant and the expense of maintenance and extensions to the present time amount to $2,90,62. Water is brought to the city from Mt. Hood, thirty miles away. It is said to be absolutely pure, as it comes direct from melting snow.

In the nine years that the plant has been under municipal control the revenues have increased ten times while the expense of maintenance is only one and one-half times what it was in 1892. Portland, according to the last census, had a population of $0.000, but it claims over 100,000 today. By the act of the Legislature sixteen citizens of Portland were appointed to manage the waterworks. They receive no salaries. While civil service is not compulsory nearly all the employes have held their positions since the plant was purchased. The superlistendent has been there for the nine years. He has entire charge of the office force. An engineer, or superinway on West Adams street, was passed.

Ordinances were passed for the opening of Fickett street from Pirst street to Second street, and for the widening of Mathews street, from First to Second street, and for the widening of Mathews street, from First to Second street.

INSPECTOR MAKES REPORT.

W. H. Payne, inspector at Monrovia for the Board of Horticultural Commissioners, has forwarded his regular monthly report, in which he says better work in ridding orchards of scale is being done than last year. Fully one-half of the trees would now require refumigation had it not been for the recent hot weather.

"The present system of fumigation," says Mr. Payne, "is altogether wrong, and this is partly due to the competition among fumigators and partly to the fact that many orchardists have been trying to get the work done cheaper, it not occurring to them that this would not a done by cutting down the labor or the profits, but by reducing the amount of cyanide.

"The fumigators are the primary cause of this bad work, for the following reasons: First, they are now trying (or certainly did last year) to kill the scale with the least possible cyanide. Second, in many cases utterly incompetent men have been put in charge.

Antidote for Anarchy.

Antidote for Anarchy.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 18.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I call attention to the lamentable fact that a large and increasing portion of mankind, known as anarchists, are germinating what they might call a tidal wave of retribution to inundate the world and to sweep the governing heads, working by rule, from off the earth.

If their design were simply to put down despotism, they might have the shadow of reason for their mission and their work: but they intend to destroy, not only kingly power, but governments of all kinds and character, and throw the entire race of man into anarchy, that is, a condition with no governing force to curb the greedy and lawless, and to stay the waves of crime. How could we possibly live under such conditions? Would not the assassing dagger be raised even against themselves?

The antidote that I prescribe to meet this withering Sirocco and destroying affliction, is, "Let the civi ized nations select a far-off and suitable island for the purpose, and send all professed and known anarchists, and all who indorse anarchistic principles to that island; turn them loose with no government nor law of any character, to check them in their vile and Godless raving;

Capt. Orrin P. Sloat, Co. K, of San Bernardino, will furnish the first court-martial the Seventh Regiment has had Capt. Sloat by a Times man at San Bernardino last night, he stated in most positive terms that it was the first he knew of it. He said he had received no notification that such a proceeding was contemplated, nor had he the slightest idea of what charges were to be preferred against him. There had been no friction in his conduct of military affairs here, so far as he knew, and the intimation of a court-martial was a great surprise. "I don't know what it's all about, and I'm not going to worry," said the captain, as he returned to the committee meeting, where plans for a public memorial service were being perfected.

The character of the charges is not known by guardsmen here as yet. The detail is made in special orders which simply state that the officers named will sit as a courf to try Capt. Sloat and such other officers as may be properly brought before it.

If is surmised that the captain may be accused of reasting some superior officer.

Witeless Telegraphy in War.

Wireless Telegraphy in War,

Wireless Telegraphy in War.

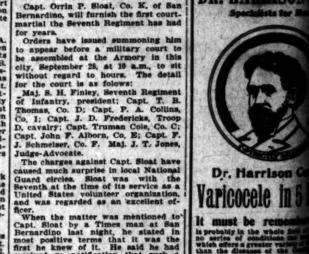

It is the opinion of most of the expert writers upon military subjects that in case of war wireless telegraphy must be susceptible of further evolution or development. It is to prove serviceable to belligerents. The main feature of the recent British naval manuvers in this direction was the proof of the fact that messages sent from one, this to another of the same feet could be intercepted and read by a vessel belong ng to the enemy. Also, it is stated that the latter, by aid of its own wireless telegraphy apparatus, could render the message unintelligible to the ships to which it was addressed. Naturally, the plan of sending cipher messages suggests itself as a means of preventing discovery, but supposing the cipher to remain unread by the enemy, it is obvious if the latter destroys the communication the wireless system is put out of court as an aid in warfare.

An alternative suggestion has been made, however, to the effect that the transmitter should be adapted to vary the "pitch" of the messages, so that by agreepent among ships each vessel would receive a message in its own

Work on the new paper mill near East Side Park is progressing favorably, but no time has been set for the starting of the plant. Joseph Brown, projector of the enterprise, and owner of the old paper mill at Lynwood, ten miles south of this city, states that his arrangements are not completed yet, and he cannot say when he will have the mill in operation. EVENTS FOR NEXT WEEK.

An open tennis tournament under the auspices of the Westlake Tennis Club will be held on the Boyle Heights courts on September 26, 27 and 25, beginning at 1:30 p.m. each day. There will be single, double and mixed events, and entries for these will close tomorrow night with P. D. Rowan of No. 1152 West Seventh street. Good prises are offered for the winners.

This will be an "open tournament," with the reservation that all tennis players who were entered in the recent Banta Monica tournament will be barred, it being the intention to encourage the sport among the younger and less experienced players and to keep the cracks from carrying off the prises.

MODEL ROADS TO BE BUILT

"Good Roads Train" Will Be Here.

Invitation in Hands of Frank Wiggins.

Highway to Pomona or to Pasadena May Be Chosen for Experiment.

Southern California, will be Jooked forward to with the greatest interest.

WHY NOT?

As May, 1992, is set for the meeting of the General Federation of Women's Clubs in Los Angeles, it would seem to be worthy of discussion whether or not the "Good Roads Train" might not arrange its exhibition at that time. The coming of the "Good Roads Train" to California, among other States, is of course dniy a matter of time. In fact, Morris O. Eiridge, acting director under Mr. Dodge, is authority for the statement that California is to be reached in 1902, therefore the question is for all interested in Southern California, where is this piece of model road to be built? In Los Angeles county this is a question which would legitimately come up before the Board of Supervisors, once provided that Los Angeles county was one of seven to secure the cooperation of the "Good Roads Train." controlled by Mr. Moore, who has already made one expedition to California to awake an interest in the matter.

FOR THE SUPERVISORS.

"Good Roads Train" experiment a should be made upon the best traveled road, in this way doing the greatest good to the greatest number.

OTHER CLAIMANTS.

On the other hand, it is suggested that the bit of model road be the beginning of the long-talked-of boules which has recently brought a proposition before the Pasadena City Council twoching joint action in a suggested connecting boulevard.

The third place discussed, is somewhere on the county road between Los Angeles and Venturs on the north, or Los Angeles and Venturs on the north of Los Angeles and Venturs on the north of the part of both counties involved. Of course in this informal discussion the claims of Santa Moniea, representing the delightful possibilities of a drive between the inland and the sen must also be considered.

A solution of the whole problem might be brought about by making in each of the seven counties in Southern California a piece of model road, and the connecting of the pieces together into the beginning of a State highway in Southern California.

ABRESTED FOR FORGERY.

The Tent City Brass Band gave the fatewell concert yesterday at the Pavillon. It was largely attended and every number was enthusiastically received. Henry Ohlmeyer, who is well fhown in California as a leader of ability, gathered together for the season this band of twenty-one musicians. having been in correspondence from the early part of February till May with the leading soloists of the large cities of the East. In addition to a regular braws band he chose the musicians so wisely that he was enabled to subdivide them into four orchestras, thus serving a twofold purpose. The acl lats are F. G. Paulisch. cornetist, F. P. Harlow, trombonist, and Dr. A. F. Wayne, clarinetist. The band contained the following-named musicians: H. Baxter, F. Muriser, C. Lemar, H. T. Simpson, M. F. TIMELY SERMON.

ELSINORE, Sept. 16.—(From The Times' Resident Correspondent.) At the Methodist Episcopal Church Sunday evening Rev. Mr. Miller delivered a sermon on the late President and the anarchy that is responsible for the monstrous crime that took him from the nation. He dwelt upon the upright, noble character of the dead Chief Executive, and his wise government, and the love of the people for him.

Anarchy and all newspapers and societies with disloyal tendencies were strongly denounced.

"An Appeal to Reason," a sheet which has been circulated from time to time in this community, received special denunciatory mention.

Superior Judge Unangat has rendered a decision in the Oaks liquor-license case, which has caused considerable comment among the people of the county. W. J. The board had passed a previous order that no more licenses should be granted for conducting saloons at Pismo. An Underground River.

An Underground River.

Roaring wells in widely separated parts of the State indicate the existence of a mighty subterranean river that flows across the State at a depth of comparatively few feet below the surface, at least at certain places, says a Marion, O., sepcial to the Indianapolis News. The latest of the roaring wells is at Chardon, a suburb of Cieveland. The men have refused to work in it, and plans are being made to dynamite it.

The phenomena are exactly the same as those noticed in a well on the farm of Mrs. Amanda Ensminger, near here. When this well had been dug to a depth of about fifty feet the roaring noise became alarming, and during the night the bottom fell out and left an opening into a subterranean stream that was so swift that it was impossible to sound it.

The wells at Chardon are evidently on the same underground river, for the phenomena are identical and indicate that the mighty unseen river extends across the State from north to south.—[Pittsburgh Press.]

the day, and certain numbers are considered fateful, as the youthful collector is superstitious.

For instance, if the third person saluting is of the male sex, the day will prove happily eventful; if a woman, sad things may be expected; and if a very young man, something truly interesting is anticipated. If the seventh saluter be also of the male sex, this indicates many social triumphs later on; if the collector is fortunate enough to receive twenty-one bows in one day, the majority of which are from the opposite sex, her matrimonial chances are assured as A No. 1.

There are also side issues, such as if the male who salutes neglects to raise his hat, that bow does not count; and the main issue is that the man who first nalutes properly, after 499 bows are registered, will without any possibility of doubt be the future husband.

Some sirls, when they are beginning to count in the four hundreds are terribly shy, and this may account for an occasional cut of a female acquaintance, for if the five hundreds are terribly shy, and this may account should come from a woman or girl, there would be no escape from an old maid's fate.

All this is very exciting, and the comparing of notes of thrilling interest,. It is said this stillness originated in Pasadena, where the chances of 569 bows to a girl in a season from the male sex are comparatively small, but the fad has spread fast, as girlish epidemics usually do, and the Los Angeles schoolgirls, with their greater opportunities, are making stupendous records.

TO DEAD PRESIDENT.

PEOPLE OF FOUR CONGREGATIONS UNITE IN SERVICE.

COVINA, Sept. 18.—[From The Times' Resident Correspondent.] Union memorial services were held in the M. E. Church last evening in honor of the late President. The building was filled to overflowing scores being unable to gain admission. The platform was occupied by the Rev. S. H. Enyeart, pastor: Rev. C. M. Jones, pastor of the Baptist Church; Rev. J. W. Utter, pastor of the Christian Church, and Rev. J. S. Matthews, rector of Holy Trinity, and all paid high tribute to the memory of the deceased President. The cilmax was reached, and a wave of emotion swept and strong men bit their lips, as the Rev. Mr. Enyeart arose, and with pathos in bis veice, read the tribute paid this great and med man by his devoted wife, at an interview in New Orieans, while the President and herself were on their last tour, when she said:

"Do you know Mai. McKiniev? Ah.

because he is my husband."

THAT WHICH REMAINS.

Rev. J. W. Uter said in part: "As now the unspeakable tragedy is past and our beloved martyr lies at peace, his sufferings over, shall we not turn our thoughts backward upon the career of his noble life? Let us turn the pages of history, review the life of one of America's greatest men. Let us study with interest his boyhood, with admiration his young manhood, with profound gratitude his arduous services in behalf of his country, and with holy reverence of his country, and with holy reverence his Christlike spirit of forgiveness and resignation to the will of God." PATRIOT WITHOUT REPROACH.

PATRIOT WITHOUT REPROACH.

"Since the days of Washington there has not appeared among the reality great men of our nation a man whose character has been so much admired, in his life time, by citisens of all sections of the country, and all political creeds, as that of William McRinley," said Rev. Mr. Enyeart. "As was said of Washington, so it may truly be said of him: "He was a patriot without reproach; he loved his country well snough, to hold his success in serving it an ample recompense." His love of country and desire for the welfare of all its citizens was only second to his love of God and supreme resignation to his will."

GOD CALLED HIM TO LEAD.

GOD CALLED HIM TO LEAD.

Rev. J. S. Matthews said: "Some men are born great, some have greatness thrust upon them, but this man, whose memory we meet to honor, achieved greatness by the nobility of his character, by the purity of his life. All men are immortal until their work is doffe, and so our dead leader stood amid the carnage of many a battlefield unharmed, but when in later years, trained by years in camp and legislative halla. FRANCHISE SOLD.

LONG BEACH, Sept. 18.—[From The Times' Resident Correspondent.] The franchise for an electric realiroad over the route asked for by Mr. Holabird was sold tonight by the City Trustees, Holabird's bid of $610 being the winner. There were four bidders, and F. P. Allison offered $601, which Holabird raised 10 per cent. Holabird's bid as first made was only $350. The route over which the proposed trolley line is to operate is as follows: Commencing at the intersection of Ocean Park avenue and Third street, thence on Third street to Alamitos avenue, thence to Bishop street, thence easterly to Descanso street, thence easterly to Commencing at the intersection of Ocean Park avenue and American avenue, thence to the northern boundary of the city limits.

Also commencing at the intersection of Third street and Pacific avenue, thence on both the east and west aides of the Library Block and City Hall

Also commencing at the intersection of Third street and Pacific avenue, thence on both the east and west sides of the Library Block and City Hall via Pacific avenue to Ocean Park avenue, thence on Ocean Park avenue, thence on Ocean Park avenue, thence on Ocean Park avenue to Magnolia avenue, thence to Third street.

Also commencing at the intersection of Ocean Park and Magnolia avenues southerly to the Pacific Ocean front.

The part of the route that makes it so valuable and that has been the cause of much controversy is along Ocean Park avenue from Pacific avenue to Magnolia. A number of property owners bitterly oppose any line on that thoroughfare, and petitioned the Trustees not to grant it.

SCHOOLS OPPENED.

The public schools opened today with a much larger enrollment than last year. Anticipating a large attendance the Board of Education had made ample provision for an overflow. In some of the rooms which are crowded today pupils will be transferred to other rooms, where the attendance is not so great. Prof. Fraiser, principal of the grammar schools, says the enrollment in the city had reached 43t at noon, and he expected more tomorrow.

NEW FINDS FOR SUNSET.

Sunset has added another producer to its list, the latest successful operator being the Queen Oil Company which has just entered the first oil sand on section 13, 11, 24. The company owns the southeast quarter of the northeast quarter of the soction named and drilled its well just three handred feet from the Sunset Diamoud well. Seattle capital is behind the enterprise.

Another recent find in the district has just been made on section 2, 11, 24 by the Dirigo, one of the Boston companies. The drill tapped a good stratum of oil sand Sunday.

'The oil men will extend the Sunset railway if the company will not do it, said a Sunset operator yesterday, 'but if they do so it will carry no guarantee that the operators of the field will ship any given amount of oil a day.'
It is understood that the company offered to extend the line to Midwey if the producers would guarantee a shipment of 1000 barrels of oil a day, or more. A conference was held by several of the large well owners interested, and the proposition to build the line was accepted.

Be bonest and truthful, don't write poetry or fanciful letters, just plain, truthful statements.

Decision will be made between October 30th and November 10th, 1901, by three judges, not members of the Postum Cereal Co., and a neat little box containing a 51 gold piece sent to each of the best five writers, a box containing a 82 greenback to each of the 100 next best, and a 81 greenback to each of the 200 next best writers, making cash prizes distributed to 325 persons.

Atmost every one interested in pure food and drink is willing to have their name and letter appear in the papers, for such help as it may offer to the human race. However, a request to omit name will be respected.

Every friend of Postum is urged to write and each letter will be held in high esteem by the company, as an evidence of such friendship, while the little boxes of gold and envelopes of money will reach many modest writers whose plain and sensible letters contain the facts desired, although the sender may have small faith in winning at the time of writing.

Talk this subject over with your friends and see how many among you can win prize. It is a good, honest competition and in the best kind of a cause.
